

❖ The Case of the Telltale Typing ❖

The body of the victim has been examined, photographed and taken to the morgue. You and Lt. Anderson are left in the small office of writer Adam Evans. Lt. Anderson says, Adam was a specialist in crime stories. You know. He also specialized in gaming his earnings and welching on his debts. You say, he must have welched on one debt too many - and died for it. According to his landlady, only two men called on him today - Joe Albers and Buzz Stuart - and both of them run gambling houses that Evans has been know to visit. Lt. Anderson says, I've already questioned them. Both Admit that Evans owed them money. And they both admit coming here today. But they each said that Evans already had the knife in him when they arrived. You take another look at the sheet of paper, In Evans typewriter with the strange line of typing J93 QOG343 1800 3E L3

I think Evans typed out his killers name. The doctor said he might have lived a couple of minutes after the knife went in. And when a dying man drags himself across a room - Just to get to his typewriter. He must be trying to leave a message

Chapter 2: CONFRONTATION

Desperate to escape the Flama epidemic, Samy pushed his dimensional abilities to their limits. His journeys became more frequent, more dangerous, until he stumbled into a dimension dominated by primal forces. This world was ruled by nature's brutal law, where advanced human tribes coexisted with ferocious dinosaur predators. It was here that Samy's greatest challenge awaited.

The sun blazed fiercely overhead as Samy navigated the dense jungle. He sought knowledge, hoping to find a way to survive. Instead, he found himself hunted by creatures that defied imagination. Gigantic beasts with razor-sharp teeth and scales that shimmered like molten metal stalked him relentlessly.

Samy had never faced such peril. In his world, he was a shadow, slipping through dimensions with ease. Here, he was prey. His heart pounded as he sprinted through the underbrush, the roars of his pursuers echoing in his ears. He knew he couldn't outrun them forever. Desperation drove him to seek refuge in the ruins of an ancient temple, its stone walls covered in vines and strange glyphs.

Inside, he discovered a tribe of survivors, humans who had adapted to this brutal world. Among them was Zara, a fierce warrior with eyes like embers and a spirit unyielding as steel. She taught Samy how to fight, how to harness his powers in ways he had never imagined. Together, they formed a bond, one forged in the fires of survival and mutual respect.

But their sanctuary was short-lived. The dinosaurs breached the temple defenses, and a fierce battle ensued. Samy fought with everything he had, tapping into the raw energy of the dimension. He moved between worlds with fluid grace, using his gift to outmaneuver their enemies. But it wasn't enough. The tribe was overrun, and Zara was captured.

Desperation turned to resolve. Samy knew he had to save her. He delved deeper into the temple, uncovering a hidden portal that led to the heart of the dimension's power. If he could harness it, he might stand a chance. But the risk was immense—failure could mean being trapped between dimensions forever.

Appreciation

Appreciation for life and what it affords us is so precious it should never be taken for granted! For our higher power to allow us to wake up every morning should be appreciated. To see the sunshine feel the cool breeze daily is not a given. To be able to assist the person who needs assistance to be a rock someone can lean on for support is definitely appreciated by others! My appreciation for all life has to give is boundless. Being removed from major heart surgery 3years ago being able to function enjoy the company of my four granddaughters is truly appreciated. Appreciate the small things afforded you not just the large things, eyesight, hearing, taste, breathe itself! Appreciate the uplifting of others and you yourself will be blessed.

Gods will
Is gods plan
I didn't die young
I'll an old man
Gods Plan
What will it be
Will it be good
Or bad for me
Gods plan
Which do I do
Will I win
Or will I lose
Gods plan
If true love is there
Then let me see
Because I care

Drawing by Romona Pride

You and me we will be together, forever
Eternally
You and me
We are committed
Just love each other
Never be evicted
You and me
Have each others back
We are strong
We wont be attacked
You and me
Are tried and true
And there is nothing
That we can do

The Government

In my opinion the government is not doing anything for the American people, there are no stimulus checks or reparations for black Americans which was very brief talked about and erased all people are while the powers that be are seedy. Trillions of dollars overseas what about us! What do we get!!!

~Timothy Middleton

Believe

For God has blessed everyone with a magical elf. This little friend will protect you in times of distress, He will lead you where you ought to go, 'cause he knows best. And when you find yourself completely lost and without a clue, Just smile my friend and pray and a new door will open up for you . Believe in him we all have been there!

~Henry 7/2024

A Short Story

Wonder a thought sitting here looking around at everything, this is some spectacular Im saying birds fly in the sky how is this so they are so high in the sky I'm sitting down here I'm thinking. The cares drive back and forth I see building and sites, I just wonder do the people see what I see. Power of God

~WLS

Stay Prayed Up

Smiling and laughing is good for your physical and mental health, also its great for who ever you are talking with, positive! Uplifting!

Stay prayed up! My friends

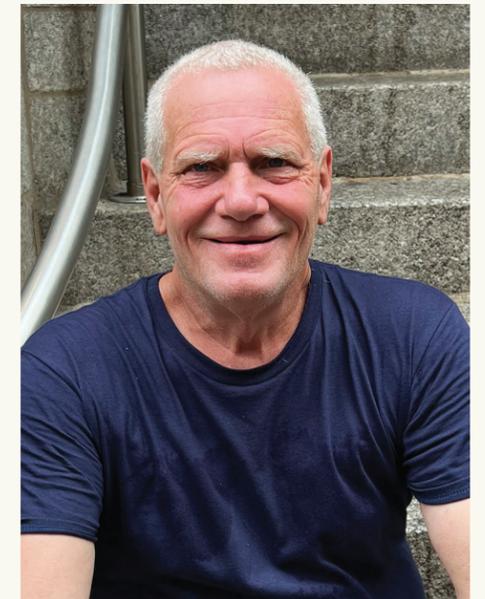

This is just my opinion in the world today it seems like good against evil which side is winning.

Spiritual armor!

The Endless Journey

About 6 months ago I was on drugs and thought there was no way out. Until one morning I woke up and met a man named Paul and went into rehab and I have been clean for 6 months now. Since then I have meet FATHER James and the maintain guys at St. Franks, things have been getting better. I am no longer homeless and drug free. All I can say is if you think things can get no better just stay strong and believe and things will get better. and just pray and things will happen just in the Lords time.

~Jeff Snow

If you fall, fall on your back if you can look up, you can get up.

When was the last time you watched a toddler learning to walk? They take a few steps and fall, Then get up and try again. Sometime they bump their heads, Bust their lips or pull things down onto their heads. No matter. They keep falling and getting up, until one day they make it clear across the room. How did we lose that fierce tenacity to make it no matter what? Most of us consider ourselves much more capable that a toothless toddler, yet they seem to have something we don't.

~John D. Madison, 7-15-24
